1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1, 5-7 and 9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by the admitted prior art as shown in instant Figures 1-2 and disclosed in the instant specification, page 6, line 22 through page 8, line 25 for reasons of record noting the following.

While applicant submits that the prior art does not necessarily go through a minimum radius before the final radius is achieved during electroplating, the instant specification teaches this is exactly what is occurring. See in particular page 7, lines 17-24. As described by applicant, the flat portion gradually disappears as the plating continues, forming at some point a radius of curvature which applicant designates as a “maximum” curvature as depicted in Fig. 1D. However, in the very next sentences, applicant states: “After that, a bottom diameter... of the plated layer 204 increases as the plated layer 204 grows. A radius of curvature thus increases accordingly”. Thus, it is clear that the initial radius of curvature—ie, once the flat portion has been eliminated—is in fact smaller than the final radius of curvature when the electroplating continues to form the desired structure. Apparently, applicant uses the term “maximum” to mean the maximum curvature to be obtained until the flat portion is eliminated. After that, any additional plating would provide a larger curvature. Hence, what applicant refers to as a

Art Unit: 1732

"maximum" curvature is in fact a minimum curvature within the meaning of the instant claims.

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negatived by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 2-4 and 8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over the admitted prior art as set forth supra for the reasons given in the first office action.

3. The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. A nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting rejection is appropriate where the conflicting claims are not identical, but at least one examined application claim is not patentably distinct from the reference claim(s) because the examined application claim is either anticipated by, or would have been obvious over, the reference claim(s). See, e.g., In re Berg, 140 F.3d 1428, 46 USPQ2d 1226 (Fed. Cir. 1998); In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) or 1.321(d) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent either is shown to be commonly owned with this application, or claims an invention made as a result of activities undertaken within the scope of a joint research agreement.

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

Claims 1-9 are rejected on the ground of nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 14-43 of U.S. Patent No. 6,656,393 for reasons of record.

4. Applicant's arguments filed March 7, 2007 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. Applicant's comments with respect to the art rejection have been addressed supra. While applicant states that the prior art does not necessarily achieve a minimum radius of curvature, it would appear that the description given by applicant suggests otherwise. Concerning the double patenting rejection, it is not clear on the record that the claims restricted out in the parent case are in fact the instant claims. Also, more to the point, if they were, then the restriction would appear to have been improper in the first place. If this is the case, then the obviousness double patenting should still stand.

5. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
